

ABSTRACT

Title: A method for improving particle compositions

- 5 The present invention relates to a method for preparing a particulate composition having improved average strength of particles comprising contacting a particulate starting material with a liquid and subjecting the mixture to high shear at a rate substantially avoiding agglomeration of particles.